TO DISCUSS ACT RELATING TO WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

J. W. Hartley, of Baltimore, Will Deliver Address at Chamber of Commerce To-Night.

With a view to familiarizing Richmond business men with the problems they will face when the workmen's compensation act, passed by the 1918 General Assembly, becomes effective January 1, the Chamber of Commerce has induced J. W. Hartley, of Baltimore, an eminent authority in the law, to address a meeting of employers in the assembly hall of the chamber to-night at 8:15 o'clock.

James H. Price, one of the authors of the act and its patron in the House of Delegates, will also address the meeting.

In a letter addressed to the chamber's membership, J. C. Easley, president, points out that Mr. Hartley has a thorough knowledge of the employer's liability insurance phase of the law and that he will address himself principally to that phase of the problem with all phases of the question insures an opportunity to employers of labor of becoming fully posted as to their liability to their employees.

"The question of employers' liability is one of such vital importance to every employer of labor that it hardly seems necessary to urge your attendance at this meeting. Its great importance so impressed J. J. Marcuse, one of our vice-presidents and chairman of our committee on manufacturers, that he promptly took advantage of the opportunity of having Mr. Hartley with him and brought this matter to the attention of our executive committee, and it is Mr. Marcuse's suggestion this meeting was determined upon."

RICHMOND BOYS IN FRANCE FACE DEATH LIKE HEROES

Letter Tells of Deeds of Daring Performed by Battle Fields of Europe.

A former employee of Welsberger's department store is Private Herbert Isenberg, who is in a hospital overseas suffering from a wound in his thigh which was pierced by a shell.

Corporal W. W. Tindler, of Orange, is in base hospital No. 49. He is also suffering from a wound in his thigh caused by being hit by pieces of shrapnel. He is a brother of Benjamin S. Tindler, of this city, and A. M. Tindler, of Petersburg.

Casualty lists lack human interest, but the personal letters from the boys abroad supply anything lacking. Such a letter from John N. Christy, of this city, formerly with the Richmond Blues, mentions how two Richmond boys met their death and tells of the wounding of several others. The letter, in part, is as follows:

"They started to shell us again; this time it was high explosive and shrapnel, so after I had gotten my relief, as I was on day duty in the dressing ward, I had to run for a new dugout. We had found, and had only been there about an hour when we got the news that Jerry had made a direct hit on our station, killing Lieutenant Saunders and Daniel McIntosh, who was a druggist at Trangle's."

"That same shell wounded five other boys. This brings our total up to thirty-five in the hospital from gas, sickness and wounded. 'Boots' Cardozo is in the hospital with gas. This little devil cracked over no man's land after a wounded American sniper, but when he got there found that the sniper was dead."

SHOULD POOL SHIPPING

American Representatives in London Think This Only Way to Meet Europe's Needs.

(By Associated Press.)—WASHINGTON, November 20.—Some representatives in London of the American government are understood to believe that the task of moving the necessary foodstuffs to the distressed civilian populations in European countries, and reconstruction material to France and Belgium can be accomplished successfully only through an international shipping pool.

These representatives also were said today to have recommended that American vessels requisitioned during the war be held by the government and that restrictions on imports of necessities into the United States remain in force until the work of supplying necessities to the war devastated countries is completed.

MANY COUPLES PARTICIPATE IN DANCE AT SEVEN PINES

More Than 500 People in Celebration Given by Munition Reserve at Seven Pines

More than 250 couples participated in the peace celebration and Thanksgiving dance given by the Women's Munition Reserve of the Bag-Loading Plant at Seven Pines last night. The dance hall was fittingly decorated with autumn leaves, corn and fodder stalks, pumpkins and other ornamentation characteristic of Thanksgiving.

American and allied flags were hung about the hall and the affair took on the part of a joyous thanksgiving celebration in observance of world peace. On the raised platform occupied by the musicians was a caged turkey gobble, which was offered as a prize in a dancing contest which featured the program and created much rivalry.

The fifth dance was a "Paul Jones," during which everyone became acquainted with everyone else, breaking the usual formality, and creating an enjoyable spirit of camaraderie. The affair was arranged under the direction of the Women's Munition Reserve dance committee, of which Miss Winifred G. Crenshaw is chairman. An announcement was made that other similar affairs will be held during the next few weeks.
